

Proceedings In Police Court.

Bar-Tender Fined $25 for Selling Whiskey on Sunday. Proprietor Acquitted.

On Wednesday morning, Oct. 17, the charges against Jack Pearce for selling whiskey without license, and against John Withrow, bartender in D. N. Young's saloon, for selling whiskey on Sunday were tried in Police Court, Judge Kemper presiding. The charges were made by policeman O. M. Willoughby.

In Pearce's case the evidence was submitted to Judge Kemper. He decided that the city of Mt. Sterling had failed to make a case, hence Pearce was discharged.

When Withrow's case was called the charge preferred was that he had sold whiskey on Sunday morning. City Attorney Day, asked that a jury try this case. From the twelve men summoned the following six were chosen: J. H. Wood, W. A. Sutton, B. H. Coyle, Henry Greenwade, J. L. Brawner and Ernest Little. The witnesses were, O. M. Willoughby for the city, John Withrow and George Owings, colored, for the defense. The chief points brought out in testimony were: Willoughby, on Sunday morning, Oct. 14th, at 9:30 o'clock, was passing D. N. Young's saloon, he looked through the window and saw Owings hand money to Withrow, the bartender; saw him open the cash register and deposit the money; saw Withrow pick up a bottle of whiskey from the counter, scratch the label from the bottle and set bottle on counter; saw a man's hand take the bottle (Owings was then standing behind a screen, so that his body could not be seen). Willoughby, on the street, talked with Owings after the latter came out of the saloon, and Owings told him that Withrow, after seeing Willoughby at the window, gave money back to him.

Withrow testified that he was in the saloon at the time specified, that Owings and three other parties who usually clean up the saloon were there cleaning up; that he did not sell or give whiskey to Owings; that he did not put the bottle of whiskey on the counter; that he was straightening up the things; that Owings wished to buy some meat for Owings' sick wife and he (Withrow) changed some money for Owings; that Owings assisted three other parties in cleaning up the saloon on Sunday morning but could not tell what Owings did on this Sunday morning; that he (Withrow) pays the men for such work but does not keep account of what he pays; that he saw Willoughby looking through the window into the saloon.

Owings testified that for some years he had known Withrow, before and since he (Withrow) was employed by D. N. Young; that he was in the saloon at the time specified; that he did not buy or get any whiskey there on Sunday morning, because he knew it would be no use to try on Sunday; that he did, however, have a dram that morning; here attorney Day asked where he got the dram, Owings replied that a gentleman had given it and appeared hesitant about telling. Jailor C. T. Wilson who was in the court room spoke up and in substance said: tell it. Owings then pointed to Wilson as the one who gave the whiskey; that he helps clean up at Young's saloon; that when Willoughby on the street asked him about the whiskey he threw back his coat and said, here I am, search me; that Willoughby had threatened to "put him up" if he did not confess that he got whiskey; that he had talked with Day and Willoughby in Day's office.

[Here he evidently tried to produce the impression that they wished to get him to convict Withrow, whether or not facts justified. Attorney Day interposed by saying that he urged Owings to tell the truth and Owings admitted this; that he would not tell a lie.

Judge Kemper read to the jury the law applicable to the case. The penalty when guilt is established, is a fine from $10 to $50.

In a few minutes the jury returned a verdict and imposed a fine of $25.

OBSERVATIONS:

On first ballot all the jury voted "guilty."

We regret that any saloon-keeper or employee violates this law, we regret that any man is satisfied to engage in the saloon business.

We are always pleased to encourage a policeman in the discharge of his duty, and it affords us pleasure thus to commend Mr. Willoughby.

On Thursday morning D. N. Young, proprietor of above saloon, was tried, charged with keeping his saloon open on Sun. day. The jury consisted of L. N. Phipps, W. O. Cheneault, Wm. Clark, Jno. C. Wood, Henry Senjeur and Harry Enoch. Much of same testimony was given, but nothing is shown that Mr. Young knew or approved of his saloon being open, but that he had directed that no sales be made on Sunday. The jury reported "not guilty."

The Exquisite Garment Models For Fall.

They're All Ready.

Charming indeed, with an abundance of style with every new design thought thrown in.

These garments represent the masterstroke of high class tailoring, free from the sweat shops--made in well lighted--well ventilated establishments by men tailors well up in the art of ideal garment-making.

Perfection, Yes! From the button-holes to the inner linings. These are not the products of ill paid labor, but worthy Fall Suits, and Jackets and Cloaks. Skirts that rank among the "best" in one of the finest tailoring shops in the country.

Notably among the New Fall Creations is the Price Chap--a sturdy little suit for women, with just enough style in the make-up to fascinate the careful dresser. Then comes the Pony Jacket Suits--chic and embodying the correct principles which go to make up the perfect costumes. And there's a score of other good creations ready and willing to pass the most careful inspection.

Jackets in the trim fall shapes and coats of the long and gracefully flowing styles. Raincoats of superb styles. Skirts in the fashion formed pleating effects.

And all priced---surprisingly low priced

AN OPEN LETTER

To The People of Mt. Sterling.

To Whom It May Concern:

Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in Mt. Sterling in regard to advertised medicines and their value--the papers are full of them.

We want to say to every man, woman and child in Mt. Sterling that we believe the most valuable preparation of cod liver oil--the best tonic reconstructor, health restorer and strength creator--we have ever sold in our store is Vinol.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, it contains no injurious drugs, but it actually does contain all of the medicinal, curative elements taken from fresh cods' livers, without a drop of the useless oil to upset the stomach and retard its work, and tonic iron added.

Vinol is recognized throughout the world as the greatest strength creator for old people, weak sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness.

Vinol cures hacking coughs, chronic colds, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles. We ask the people of Mt. Sterling to try Vinol on our offer to return money if it fails. W. S. Lloyd, Druggist.

NOTE.--While we are sole agents for Vinol in Mt. Sterling, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

A Word To The Wise.

Says the Evening Times:

"Where the party primaries are so conducted that every candidate has counted for him every vote cast for him, there is no danger that the party will ever be dominated by a machine. If mistakes are made in the selection of nominees they will be due to the error of the party as expressed by the majority of its voters, not to the greed or dishonesty of one man or a combination of men, and the people at the polls may safely be looked to for the correction of such errors."

In the Democratic primary on Tuesday, November 6, the Times is determined so far as its influence with the Democratic party goes, that it shall be exercised in giving just representation at the polls in the form of inspectors where a candidate has opposition, and in the selection by the party authorities of men to serve as officers of the primary who will give to every candidate a square deal. However strong may be its desire in this respect, and however much it may meet the approval of the party authority, it will fail of realization, unless the candidates themselves see to it that the men named by them as election officers can safely be entrusted with the party's honor, thereby insuring the party's right to success in the election of its nominees. If this is not done and fraud should taint the primary, its first cost will fall deservedly on the candidates, but the party, too, will suffer undeservedly."

The Courier-Journal indorses every word of this. It is truth as plain as Holy Writ. But we go a step farther to say that we shall join other good citizens and good Democrats in exposing fraud, if fraud appears, and in hunting down and bringing to justice those who attempt it or effect it.

Now is the accepted time to call a halt on corruption at the polls, no matter at whose expense. All parties have had a hand in it. Scarcely a faction of either the Democratic or the Republican party but has been tarred with the same brush. Each committeeman in the coming Primary owes it to himself, to his country, and to his political associates personally to devote himself to a fair vote and an honest count. Never was there greater need for this, both in the Democratic Primary and in the General Election.

¶ A word to the wise ought to be good for sore eyes.

Stops earache in two minutes; toothache or pain of burn or scald in five minutes; hoarseness, one hour; muscleache, two hours; sore throat, twelve hours--Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, monarch over pain. 12-5t.

Liquor Dealers Are Barred By The Kentucky Masons.

One Of Most Exciting Debates In History of Grand Lodge.

At Louisville last week after one of the most exciting and most animated debates in the history of the grand Lodge of Kentucky Masons the resolution proposed barring liquor dealers from entrance into any Masonic lodge in Kentucky was passed in a slightly amended form.

The amendment made the resolution even more drastic, for on motion of Grand Master Garnett, druggists were included if they sold liquor for a beverage.

At least twenty speeches were made upon the subject.

Questions came from all parts of the room as to how the resolution would affect liquor dealers now members of the order.

PRESENT MEMBERS TO REMAIN.

"According to the Grand Lodge they are in a very bad business," replied Grand Master Garnett.

It was generally agreed, however, that the liquor dealers or distillers, who are now Masons, shall remain in the order, but that the brethren shall urge them to take some other occupation.

The feeling seemed to be also that no liquor dealer or distiller can be further advanced in Masonry to which he has already attained at the time of the passage of this resolution.

DEBATES ON THE REPORT.

The report was read by Past Grand Master B. G. Witt, and it recommended that the resolution be made a part of the constitution. This would necessitate its laying over for a year, and the report of this committee was, therefore, strongly opposed by Past Grand Master Wilhelm, the author of the resolution.

Past Grand Master, W. C. McChord, then made an earnest speech of fifteen minutes, in which he urged the adoption of the report and the deferring of the whole question for a year, not only to comply with the organic law, but to give the fraternity an opportunity to study the question.

URGES IMMEDIATE VOTE.

George Shaw, Master of Shiloh lodge, of Louisville, urged an immediate vote upon the question. D. D. Groy, of Louisville, opposed the whole resolution and the committee's report. Samuel K. Veach, who was on Wednesday selected Grand Master, then got the floor and demanded immediate action.

"This question has been side-tracked often enough," said Mr. Veach. "The Grand Lodge is now face to face with it and the issue cannot be avoided."

AMENDMENT AS TO DRUGGISTS.

An amendment was adopted providing that no man engaged in the manufacture or sale of liquor, and no druggist who sells liquor as a beverage, under any circumstances, shall be admitted into a lodge of Kentucky Masons, and that any lodge which violates this order shall forfeit its charter.

One delegate asked if this resolution did not mean that all employees in distilleries would be barred. Past Grand Master Witt was clearly of that opinion, and so argued. He said that the clerk who received payments, the man who drives the wagon, the engineer who shovels coal in a distillery--all would be barred.

GRAND MASTER GARNETT'S VIEW.

Grand Master Garnett took a contrary view and said that such questions could with wisdom be left to the subordinate lodges.

The Grand Lodge was by this time up to a high state of excitement, and there were loud cries of "question." A few tried to stay the tide in vain, and the amendment offered by Mr. Veach was passed forbidding any lodge to admit a liquor dealer in the next twelve months and then the report of the committee was adopted as amended. The vote was taken by a rising vote. In all thirty-two votes were cast against the resolution. As about 450 voted, the vote, therefore, stood 418 against the liquor dealers, and 32 in favor of admitting them.

PRESENT MEMBERS NOT AFFECTED.

A delegate from Eastern Kentucky was then recognized, and he offered a resolution that all Masons now engaged in the liquor business be given one year to close up their business. If they failed to do this they should then be suspended.

Grand Master Garnett ruled that question out of order, and said that the standing of no Mason could be impeached except for conduct considered un-Masonic at the time he was elected a member of the order. The consideration of the liquor resolution was the last matter of importance up for consideration.

CATARH SEASON.

Disease Most Prevalent in the Fall Months. Simple Way to Cure.

At the first warning of catarrh, one should begin using Hyomei. There is no stomach dosing with this treatment. The medication of its healing oils and balsams is taken in with the air you breathe so that it reaches the most remote cells of the nose, throat and lungs, killing the catarrh germs wherever present, and soothing all irritations in the mucous membrane.

You run no risk in paying W. S. Lloyd $1 for a Hyomei outfit, as he gives his personal guarantee that if the remedy does not afford relief, your money will be refunded at once. Extra bottles of Hyomei, if needed, cost but 50 cents, making it the most economical treatment for catarrh as well as the only one that is sold on guarantee.

Dozens of ministers and right thinking men have recently come to the defense of Gov. Beckham, including the Rev. W. O. Carver, of the Southern Baptist ministry. In a strong letter he urges the temperance people to stand for Gov. Beckham and among other things says:

"Governor Beckham is an open and insistent advocate of local option laws and their enforcement and is also seeking to enforce the laws closing saloons on Sunday; during the last session of the Legislature, the Governor in all right ways and on all proper occasions lent his influence to the enactment of the County Unit Law and it is unquestionable that without this support of the Governor, these laws could not have been passed. On account of this attitude of the Governor and on account of other legislation opposed by the liquor interests, these interests have lined up solidly for the punishment of the Governor. They are ready to use enormous sums of money and all strategy of which they are masters to accomplish the defeat of Mr. Beckham for the Senatorial nomination. This is not revenge alone; far more, it is persecution. Let it be remembered that Gov. Beckham is the first of Kentucky's Governors to identify himself with the temperance and reform movement and vigorously to antagonize liquor lawlessness and at once one sees how important it appears to these liquor men to make an example of the Governor."

AMEN.

Rev. Mark Collis in the closing paragraph of his sermon before his Lexington audience on the question of saloons said: "I may have some saloon keepers present, I would in no way hurt the feelings of any one of you. Many of you are kind-hearted fellows. You will feed the hungry and clothe the naked. But that does not atone for the awful wrong you are doing the community in making many more naked and hungry; in ruining the young men of our city; in breaking the hearts of mothers and of fathers, and in helping men on to everlasting perdition. Let me entreat you to think of these things and to quit this cruel business."

Another step would be to keep the lids on and to stand by and vote into office those people who endeavor to do right at the risk of losing their political lives. "I would rather be right than President," is the true principle.

WILL BE ENDORSED.

J. Will Clay made a safe representative. His powers brought good things to pass and kept some hurtful things from passing. In another assembly he would do better because he has experience now. For these and other reasons the people of Montgomery will re-elect him.

Will the temperance people of Montgomery county listen to the advice of President Adams and other known temperance men, or will they accept the advice of the Seated Democrat, whose Editor has admitted that he voted for whiskey in the recent local option election and is now the mouthpiece of the whiskey candidates.

Temperance people, isn't it singular that all the whiskey people are so violently opposing Beckham? Think over it and then say by your vote whether you stand for or against the liquor interests.

A TIME FOR SERIOUS THOUGHT.

A question vital to the Democratic party confronts it today. The issue is the strict observance of Sabbath laws and the temperance question. Governor Beckham stands squarely, is committed to the enforcement of the Sunday laws and pledged to the temperance cause. Voter, what are you for and how will you vote November 6th? Be careful, be serious, be sure you are right before casting your ballot. The destiny of your beloved State for years way down the future may be on the balance now, and your vote may break that balance.

DESERVE THEIR PUNISHMENT.

The murder of an inmate asylum by employees of the institution is horrifying. The trial of Pharris and Adams at Lexington reveals a degree of cruelty and heartlessness not to be expected in a civilized community. Their conviction was merited and possibly the sentence was too mild. No doubt the superintendent of the asylum will have his eyes opened to the deplorable condition of affairs.

We are sorry that lack of space prevents us from publishing in full the letter of Rev. Adams, President of the Anti-Saloon League of Kentucky, wherein he gives all the credit for the passage of the County Unit Bill to Gov. Beckham, and urges the temperance voters to stand together for the only Governor that ever had the courage to stand for them.

The vote for Superintendent of Public Instruction is all one way in this section. Gullion is the man of experience and approved morals.

Judge Hager in his circuit through Nicholas and Bath had large audiences and made a fine impression. He will secure a large vote in this section where he is very popular. All indications point to Judge Hager carrying Montgomery county easy.

HIS PROSPECTS.

"And what are your prospects?" asked the girl's father.

"I don't know, sir," replied the lover, with great dignity. "I am not so mercenary as all that."

"What do you mean by that?" "I mean that if never offered to me to marry me, I would not marry you."

"Yes," remarked Seldon Tarlton, as he laid his north wester on his knees, and ran a fishy hand through his snarled hair. "I ain't sayin' I never saw a homelier man than Eben Knights; I jest observes as how I didn't hev no recollections as Bill." With that he moved a little more to the seaward box in the Pottery grocery. There was a large attendance of hangers-around, and they appeared to be drinking in old Seldon's words as if they were camels about to start on a ten days' journey. Not only that, but also eyes and mouths were employed.

"Fraps," suggested Bill Sherwin, the grocer, a man with sandy whiskers and as dried as a red herring, "that's the reason he can't hitch up with Emelina Bollins."

It was true that Eben Knights didn't happen to be the best looking man in Potteryville—not by a long shot. To describe him would invite a suit for libel, and a jury sitting on Eben's case could not fail to be pityingly sympathetic. But his not being up to the mark in looks didn't by any means account for Emelina Bollins' failing to hitch up with him after a courtship stretching back into the dim and hazy past to the extent of a dozen years.

"It's nothin' short us race suicide—this long courtship business," volunteered Squire Allen. "An'—turning to the correspondent of the New Hampshire Weekly Sentinel—"you kin see me down as sayin' so."

Here Seldon Tarlton, jealous of interruptions, took up the thread of conversation by acidly remarking that "some folks surely was allus a bankner's to see their names in print."

"Wall, I feel at times 'f I did be willin' 'nough to set here an' listen to somebody else's tongue waggin' all the time, only I'd like to be some one's as no down as sayin' so."

Here Seldon Tarlton, jealous of interruptions, took up the thread of conversation by acidly remarking that "some folks surely was allus a bankner's to see their names in print."

"Wall, I feel at times 'f I did be willin' 'nough to set here an' listen to somebody else's tongue waggin' all the time, only I'd like to be some one's as no down as sayin' so."

Here Seldon Tarlton, jealous of interruptions, took up the thread of conversation by acidly remarking that "some folks surely was allus a bankner's to see their names in print."

The attributes of Mrs. Seldon Tarlton were well known to the store loungers, who set up a subdued titter as Seldon glared across a pile of biscuit tins to where sat the importuned Squire Allen.

With honors thus even between the two wits, the conversation went on till threat by threat the fabric of action was completed, in so far as it related to the case of Potteryville versus the non-marrying Eben and Emelina. For more than six of the dozen years aforementioned, Eben Knights had been calling on Emelina Bollins regularly on Sunday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, coming to her house at exactly seven o'clock and departing punctually at the stroke of nine.

Tarlton suggested that the following "sparking day" the villagers repair to the Bollins residence with railroad rails, of all sorts, horns, megaphones, cornets, devil's fiddles, drums and other instruments of torture—in short, that Potteryvillians make noise themselves and a serenading party. Then, when Eben Knights came to the door to find out what was the matter, he tripped in, congratulating him on his marriage, and demanded to see the bride and want documents.

Seldon Tarlton laughed long and loud as he returned the couple's dismay at this pretense, but he was himself damaged and his laugh ceased when he knocked over a rug-pot with his foot to settle on the spot with Bill Sherwin.

The sight of so much money-changing hands in a right-of-the-community east a sort of gloom over the party, and pretty soon they all joined, agreeing to meet in the freight house at the railroad depot the following Wednesday evening.

This rendezvous was kindly kept for them by the station master, who was by no means over-whelmed with his duty of meeting the train a day that passed through Potteryville, leaving it their wake an occasional summer-visitor and two mail bags, described by the waggish Tarlton as the eyes of Potteryville, since it was and through them the village obtained a glimpse of the outside world.

The party, once assembled, did not dilly-dallying, but went straight to the Bollins farm near by. The shadow of night clouds circled the squat farmhouse with its blazing window beacons, and even removed from view the appendages in the rear. In the company were Seldon Tarlton, Squire Allen, Bill Sherwin and all the lesser notables even including Deacon Willard, of the Second Christian church, a man well past 70.

At the pandemonium began, one could not properly call the scene a picture, since, in the deep and almost velvet blackness, nothing could be seen. But it could easily be imagined that, had daylight prevailed, Deacon Willard would not have continued breaking in the corner bottom of old lady Bollins' wash boiler, firmly gripped by Squire Allen's seven-year-old, nor would the squire, in his turn, have been using a high-handled jack-knife as a pry-in statue violation of the laws and statutes of the sovereign state of New Hampshire—to raise the Bollins' sitting-room window that Seldon Tarlton's congested horns might blow therein deafening blasts with a rusty tin fish horn; nor would even the hardy Tarlton have continued his thunderous pounds on the front door with a panel shattering fist, that was thickly mailed in its own horn-hardened epidermis.

By intervals the noise would die out, and by intervals it would be resumed. At the end of two hours, the serenading party began to tire, yet not none of its persistency.

There in the door stood Eben Knights, with his arm protectively encircling Emelina Bollins' waist and behind her back and, and still farther back was Rev. Sylvester Hooper Snowdon, of the Second Christian church, gazing in blank surprise at the shrinking form of Deacon Willard. And the homeliest man in Potteryville was Eben Knights, and the prettiest girl was Emelina—man and wife!

Even invited the party in to a spread of bread and newly opened peach and strawberry preserves, asked them how they heard about the wedding so soon, and used them all as we'd like to use others after we've had a pleasant day and three square meals. The serenaders were still perplexed when they went away, and there are times when perplexity is positively painful!

It was months afterward when Eben Knights left Potteryville home, aroused to action by the sound of the serenaders' at the doors and windows, he had proposed to Emelina, who had accepted him on the spot, and had summoned Rev. Sylvester Hooper Snowdon—who had fortunately happened to be calling on her father—to perform the ceremony which for its long years had been deferred until Potteryville's forbearance ceased to be a virtue.

ASTONISHED THE PEDDLER. "Beg pardon, sir," said the peddler of supplies, "but have you got a typewriter?"

"My?" replied the merchant. "May I ask what style?"

"Oh, out of sight! A regular peach! Come in and I'll introduce you to her."

CAN'T PLEASE 'EM.

Mr. Jawback (propitiatingly)—My dear, you're prettier than you were when I married you.

Mrs. Jawback—Oh, I was homely then, was I? Brute!—Cleveland Leader.

AN EXCUSE FOR EACH ONE.

with that darned machine? I'm getting sick and tired of it. Why in the world don't you put the silly thing where it won't worry a person—to death?

"The stranger seemed much taken back. 'I am very sorry that it annoys you,' he replied, apologetically. 'I will have it removed at once.'"

Within an hour a porter took the life away.

A short time subsequent to this little encounter between the clerk and the middle-aged man the former was sent for by Mr. Flagler. When the clerk entered the office he found Mr. Flagler in earnest conversation with the aforesaid diffident gentleman, who pleasantly greeted the clerk and soon left the room.

When the clerk had received his instructions he returned to ask, for a light was beginning to dawn upon him, who was the gentleman he had just left.

"That was Mr. Rockefeller," was the reply.

It Costs Nothing

To find out for a certainty whether or not your heart is affected. One person in four has a weak heart; it may be you. If so, you should know it now, and save serious consequences. If you have short breath, fluttering, palpitation, hungry spells, hot flushes; if you cannot lie on left side; if you have fainting or smothering spells, pain around heart, in side and arms, your heart is weak, and perhaps diseased.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.

"About a year ago I wrote to the Miles Medical Co., asking advice as to suffering with heart trouble, and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side without pain. They advised me to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine. Which I did with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it. I took about thirteen bottles of the two medicines, and haven't been bothered with my heart since."—MRS. L. C. 710, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

ORIGIN OF SOME SEA TERMS.

Almost All Languages of the World Have Had Share in Words Now in Constant Use.

There is hardly a language which has not been called upon to provide at least one of the curious sea terms which are in constant use and whose origin is so obscure.

For instance the word "admiral" is not of English origin, but is from the Arabic "emil el bagh," or lord of the sea. Captain comes from the Latin caput, but mate is from Icelandic and means a companion or equal. Coxswain was a word whose derivation would never be guessed. The coxswain was originally the man who pulled the after oar in the captain's boat, which was known as the cock boat. This in turn is a corruption of the word coracle, a small round boat used on the Wye and Us rivers. So coxswain comes to us from the Welsh.

Commodore is not so difficult to trace to its beginning. It is simply the Italian commodatore, meaning commemorate. So such person as Dary Jones ever existed, though we often hear of him and his locker. One should speak of "Duffy Jones's locker," for that was the original. Duffy is the West Indian name for spirit or ghost, while Jonah refers, of course, to the prophet.

Another curious case of a term gradually corrupted out of its original form is the dog watch. It was originally the "dogge watch," because it lasted only two hours instead of four and thus makes it possible that the same man shall not be on duty every day during the same hours.

Then there is the "sheet anchor," the name given to the largest anchor carried by a vessel. It is really "shot anchor," and is so called because of its great weight, which makes it easy to shoot out in case of emergency.

Instead of the terms "port" and "starboard," which are used now-a-days, they used to talk of "larboard" and "starboard." Starboard has nothing in common with stars, but is really the Anglo-Saxon "steor board" and "starboard." Starboard all galleys which were steered by an oar the oar was fixed somewhat to the right-hand side of the stern and the helmsman held the inboard portion in his right hand. "Larboard" was probably a corruption of lower board, the larboard side being inferior to the other.

The "jury mast" has nothing in common with a jury except its derivation from the same word, "jour," the French word meaning day.—Marine Journal.

SENT COIN BAKED IN BISCUIT.

Colorado Girl's Novel Way of Getting Money Through the Mail.

A Colorado girl who wanted a certain school book ordered it from a Chicago publisher and sent the money for it, baked in a biscuit.

The sender explained that she was so far from a money order selling-office of any kind that she had no other mode of sending the price than to inclose it as she did. It was a silver quarter that she sent. We often hear of clouds with silver linings, but here is a chunk of dough with a silver lining!

The woman who tells the story says that this is only one of many inventions of money mailing people. Their resources in contriving ways to disguise the presence of coin or currency in letters and packages seemingly are unlimited. Chicago's big stores that handle a heavy business through the mails are able to recount some unusual methods. Some of the women who send in Chicago for various articles are ingenious in this matter. The Colorado incident simply shows the scope of the human mind in trying to outwit the thieves who occasionally manage to slip into the federal service.

The lost and found department of the United States railway service in Chicago produces some wonderful conceits in concealing remittances. Frequently packages break open and dollars, halves, quarters and dimes roll out of unlearned of hiding places. One queer fact concerning the matter is that after a person has taken unheeded of pains to hide a remittance he will be up on his package so carefully that it breaks open with the slightest jar or jolt.

In the Colorado book order the sender sent with the biscuit a note telling where the coin was secreted. The book she wanted was "Studies in French."

THE BLACK CANCER.

THE VICIOUS NEGRO AND THE NORTH'S RESPONSIBILITY FOR HIM.

A Northern Editor's Vigorously Outspoken Words To the Northern People.

[The Minneapolis Bellman.]
The fearful occurrences in Atlanta, Ga., which have horrified readers of the daily press may well give us of the North a shock. We deserve it and we need it to awaken us to a realization of our responsibilities to our brethren of the South. A race war, undertaken on the part of the whites in sacred defense of their homes, or an unlawful outbreak in which the innocent and guilty of one race were alike sacrificed to the maddened vengeance of another; consider it either way, as you will;
denounce it or excuse it; find pullulation in the greatest of provocations humanity can know or condemn the perpetrators as outrageous law-breakers, you cannot avoid the awful fact that the condition which is responsible for it exists and must be reckoned with.

This dreadful problem presses for a permanent solution. The conclusion of the rebellion demonstrated, once and for all, that this was a nation. Being such, its component parts must share responsibility for the maintenance of order and justice within its borders. If the protection of woman is not the supreme duty of the American citizen, whether he lives north or south of Mason and Dixon's line, then our country no longer deserves to rank among civilized nations. If it is, then it is time that the citizens of the South ceased to consider the problem of the South as an academic question to be discussed calmly and regretfully at a safe distance from the scene of horror and shame. It is his duty to come forward, manfully, and acknowledge his share of the blame and assume his part of the burden.

The North is even more responsible for this overshadowing horror than the South. Let it face the facts as they are and cease this sloppy, sentimental talk about the elevation of the negro race and the need of self-control on the part of the Southern Caucasian. Ethical considerations, fine-spun theories, philanthropic devices for a gradual elevation of the negro are not entitled to a moment's consideration when it is true that no white woman living in the South is safe for a moment unless guarded by the gun.

The North freed these negroes.
It elevated them to citizenship and proclaimed them the possessors of equal rights with the whites. Previous to the war, slavery, accursed though it was, held them in subjection and restrained the brutes among them, and they were many, from violence. Careless of consequences, the North let them loose and encouraged them to believe themselves equal in everything to their former masters. After a brief interregnum of carpet-bag government, the conquerors returned to their safe, pure, protected homes, secure in the knowledge that the law was amply strong to protect them from assault and their women from dishonor. They washed their hands of responsibility;
they left to the impoverished, defeated, disheartened South the task of making the newly-freed worthy of citizenship.

Since then the North has contributed largely of money to educate the negro. It has sent Northern teachers, devoted, self-sacrif-ing, well-meaning persons, full of zeal to lift the once oppressed race to a higher plane. It has sym-pathized with and supported every scheme devised to benefit the negro and has lauded to the highest skies every effort to create in him social, political and financial aspirations. To the protests of the white men of the South, who knew the negro and had to live with him, that the methods chosen were

FLUE CURING IMPROVES TOBACCO LIKE ROASTING IMPROVES GREEN COFFEE

Flue Curing Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste
Found in Schnapps that Satisfies Tobacco Hunger

There are three ways used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely, sun cured, air cured and flue cured. The old and cheap way is called air cured; the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured. In flue-curing the tobacco is taken from the field and suspended over intensely hot flues in houses especially built to retain the heat, and there kept in the proper temperature until this curing process develops in the tobacco the stimulating taste and fragrant aroma found in Schnapps tobacco, just as green coffee is made fragrant and stimulating by the roasting process. Only choice selections of this ripe, juicy flue cured leaf, grown in the famous Piedmont country, where the best tobacco grows, are used in Schnapps and other Reynolds' brands of high grade, flue cured tobaccos.

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps; the outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco; one chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco.

Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other kind, and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers. If the kind of tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy, more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.

Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c. to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts, strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.

wrongly and mischievous and would surely result in disaster, the people of the North turned a deaf ear.

The Southern white man's exact knowledge of conditions was discredited, his advice scorned, his warnings unheeded. Although he had demonstrated repeatedly his fidelity to the restored Union and had shown his willingness to serve his country in the field when the emergency arose, he was deemed unworthy of confidence in questions affecting the negro. He was told to observe the law, when the law was unable to save him or, what was a thousand times more important, to save the dearest thing on earth to him—his women. He was told to contain himself, to be patient and await the results of long-distance Northern theorizing.

Meantime he was surrounded by a dense mass of ignorant negroes fast forgetting what little of self-control had been inherited from a former generation which had been trained to respect the white man and honor the white woman and rapidly returning to a state of brutal savagery, every day degenerating, as a whole, morally, and becoming an increasing menace to civilization. Upon this vicious, ignorant, debased horde, the puny schemes of race elevation were as snowflakes falling into the seething ocean. Still the Southern whites protected, warned and implored, but Northern sentimentalism was proof against the natural appeals of race, the ties of kinship and the dictates of nature.

Now it has at length come to pass that the deluge has broken and this problem, long in the brewing of its malign factors, must be effectually settled, not alone by the South, but the north as well. We have had enough of theorizing, temporizing, philosophizing; it is time to act. Northern people are not generally aware of the fact, but it is, nevertheless, true that the state of mass of negroes in the South is so debased, so utterly, hopelessly, fearfully lacking in moral conceptions that there exists in many Southern States a condition which this or any other respectable journal would not dare discuss except in the most general terms so loathsome and shocking would the details be if truly and plainly related.

White women and children are not safe; they cannot walk unguarded in the streets of the cities even in the daytime. At night, doors must be locked and windows barred, the revolver must be ready at hand, if the black assailant is to be kept off. In many portions of the black belt, the family of the white man lives in a constant state of siege; a fate worse than death awaits its members if they dare relax their vigilance for an hour. Northern people do not know the truth and their journals are not enlightening them. The South, for very shame, is loth to let the facts be known, but a residence of even a few weeks in any portion of the country where the ignorant negro population is congested will convince the most sceptical that this hideous danger is always imminent and very real.

The crime of stealing is the very least of the negro's offenses against Southern society. The whites of the South have long since ceased to expect that he will respect rights of property. Larceny is looked upon as a joke. As well might one expect the leopard to change his spots, as the Southern negro to refrain from stealing. It is possible to protect against this comparatively minor offense; it is the hideous crimes, the unspeakable horrors that are the real menace. Against these the law is powerless, because it recognizes no punishment adequate to the offense; it can devise nothing that will prevent its recurrence and the harm done is irreparable.

Ordinary punishment, adequate in the North to check crime, fails entirely in the South to restrain the negro even from the commission of minor misdemeanors. The disgrace of imprisonment does not touch him, as a rule. In many Southern towns, when cold weather approaches many of them commit theft in order to be arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary during the winter months, there to be maintained in comfort until spring. When once again at liberty they come back, and are met at the train by their neighbors, relatives and friends, and escorted in triumph to their lurking places as if they were heroes instead of criminals let loose from jail.

The fear of immediate and dreadful death is powerless to control the brutal degenerated negro. His mind is too feeble and shallow to consider the consequences of his crime and the brute in him, once awakened, reckons nothing whatever of future punishment. The force of example, even in its most terrifying form when frenzied mobs wreak vengeance in burning and sickening torture, does not impress itself upon this class for more than a very brief time. Its intellect is so inferior and its imagination so utterly diseased that the effect of such horrid spectacles soon wears off.

This national cancer is a revol-ing subject. One is loathe to speak of it, but if it is ever to be cut out, it must be realized and considered in all its horror, especially by Northern people who have too long shut their eyes to the truth. The South understands it, and the better classes of whites, to whom our sympathy and aids should be extended in the fullest measure, know further that, beside the vicious negro, they have with them a large element of ignorant, violent, intemperate white people for whose crude and revolting execution of lynch law they are held responsible by the world.

It is time for the North to bear a hand in the solution of the problem it has liberally shared in creating. It can do so by ceasing to exploit the negro as the white man's equal. It can do so by considering the mass of negroes in the South as they are, not as sentimentalists represent them to be. It can do so by discontinuing its fruitless attempt at higher cultivation of the negro. As long as the vast majority of the race in the South remains as it is, the strong arm of white control must be strengthened and encouraged to exert itself.

The negro must be taught the rudimentary virtues he has forgotten before he can aspire to a higher education. He must be made to obey, absolutely. He must be compelled to restrain himself. He must fear and respect the law, and he must be made to understand that if he dares to as much as think wrongfully of a white woman he will deserve death, and at the slightest indication of an intent to commit wrong he will receive it. The North can do its duty by first understanding the condition as it is and then uniting with the Caucasian of the South, in the knowledge of and sympathy with his situation, to devise proper adequate and permanent relief.

What is now needed is less sentiment and more common sense on the part of the North. All the money it has to devote to humanitarian purposes, and all the sympathy and support it can summon should, in the grave emergency which threatens North and South alike, be placed, unreservedly and in the fullest confidence, back of the better class of white people in the South who alone are possessed of a full comprehension of the true situation and who alone are competent to deal with it adequately and justly.

DEATHS.

HISLE.

Algin Hisle, of Waco, Madison county, died suddenly on Sunday evening after returning from church.

AMSDEN.

J. P. AMSDEN, a prominent banker and citizen of Versailles, died at St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, on Monday night. He delivered a temperance lecture here during the campaign, and is well known.

STONE.

The wife of Capt. W. J. Stone, of Kuttawa, Ky., died on Sunday at the home of her daughter at Jackson, Miss. She was a native of Cynthia, and on the battlefield at Cynthia she found Capt. Stone suffering from the loss of a leg. She waited on him and later became his wife.

BIGGERSTAFF.

The friends of R. E. L. Biggerstaff, of Richmond, will regret to hear of his death which occurred on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, Oct. 28, 1906. He was the corner of Madison county, also an undertaker. He conducted a burial on Friday in the country, returned to town and became sick and died as stated. The burial was on Monday afternoon. He married Miss Macie Baum, of our city, on March 17, 1897. She survives him. Mrs. Baum, mother of Mrs. Biggerstaff, went to Richmond on Sunday afternoon accompanied by Mrs. May Baum. The many friends of Mrs. Biggerstaff sympathize with her.

President Fixes November 29 as Day of Thanksgiving.

The President has issued a proclamation naming Thursday, November 29, as a day of thanksgiving.

The text of the proclamation is as follows:

"A proclamation: The time of year has come when, in accordance with the wise custom of our forefathers, it becomes my duty to set aside a special day of thanksgiving and prayer to the Almighty because of the blessings we have received and of prayer that these blessings may be continued. Yet another year of wide-spread well-being has passed. Never before in our history or in the history of any other nation has a people enjoyed more abounding material prosperity than is ours; a prosperity so great that it should arouse in us no spirit of reckless pride, and least of all a spirit of heedless disregard of our responsibilities, but rather a sober sense of our many blessings and a resolute purpose, under Providence, not to forfeit them by any action of our own.

Material well-being, indispensable though it is, can never be anything but the foundation of true national greatness and happiness. If we build nothing on this foundation, then our national life will be as meaningless and empty as a house where only the foundation has been laid. On our material well-being must be built a superstructure of individual and national life, lived in accordance with the laws of the highest morality, or else our prosperity itself will in the long run turn out a curse instead of a blessing. We should be both reverently thankful for what we have received and earnestly bent on turning it into a means of grace and not of destruction.

Accordingly I hereby set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and supplication, on which the people shall meet in their homes or churches, devoutly acknowledge all that has been given to them and to pray that they may in addition receive the power to use these gifts aright.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 22nd day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six, and of the Independence of the United States one hundred and thirty-first.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

ELIHU ROOT, Secretary of State.

Entirely Praiseworthy.

Ira E. Yelton, cashier Farmers Bank, Clintonville, Ky.: "I am intimately acquainted with persons who have cured their hogs when infected with cholera, by the use of Bourbon Hog Cholera Remedy, and am personally acquainted with persons whose testimonials appear in your booklet and know them to be the very best people in their respective communities. I feel that there cannot be too much said in praise of this remedy." Sold and guaranteed by W. S. Lloyd, Mt. Sterling Ky. 12-5.

Baptist Rally.

The Louisville Baptists will hold a rally at 8 o'clock Friday evening, November 9, at the Broadway Baptist church, in the interest of the new Baptist Educational Society of Kentucky. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Baptist Theological Seminary; Dr. T. T. Eaton, of the Walnut-street church; Dr. Carter Helm Jones, of the Broadway church, and Dr. P. T. Hale, secretary of the Kentucky Educational Society, will deliver addresses. All the churches in Louisville will be represented at the rally. It is said this will be one of the most important gatherings in the history of the Louisville Baptist churches.

Turkey Crop.

Bigger and Better Than Ever and Prices Will Be Lower Than Last Year.

According to advices received by Lexington poultry dealers, the crop of turkeys this year will be a very large one. Dealers are now receiving turkeys weighing from 12 to 15 pounds a piece, as compared with turkeys weighing 7 to 10 pounds last year. Eastern speculators who played havoc with the market last year were taught a severe lesson, and they will keep their hands off this season. Last year these interests secured options on the bulk of the turkey crop in October for delivery during November and December. Realizing that they would not receive the exorbitant prices they had looked for, they failed to take up their options. As a result the farmers were left with a big supply of turkeys on hand, which they were compelled to sell at very low figures.

This year, however, the farmers are pledged to sell direct to the consumers, and take the open market price.

Present prices of 14 cents a pound on foot and 20 cents dressed will probably prevail during the Thanksgiving holidays. Lexington Herald.

INDIGESTION A CRIME.

Don't You Want a Keen Appetite and Perfect Health Once More?

It is a positive crime to suffer with the ills of indigestion, such as headache, backache, sleeplessness, nausea, and distress after eating, with despondency and nervousness, now that the guaranteed Mi-na stomach tablets can be obtained from W. S. Lloyd.

Use this remedy, and keep an appetite, vigorous digestion, strong heart action, pure blood, nerves of steel and natural strength and health will be restored to you quickly.

Mi-na is entirely different from all other remedies that are recommended for the cure of indigestion, for it strengthens all the digestive organs and is not a mere digestive.

Ask W. S. Lloyd to show you the guarantee he gives with every 50 cent box of Mi-na. The remedy will not cost a penny unless it cures. 16-4-18.

The Latest.

In letters received at Washington, William Jennings Bryan says he is encouraged about the next House and that the indications are that the Democrats will gain control of it. He declares the best way to support the President is to elect Democrats as the "record shows that the Democrats have stood by him better in the Senate and in the House than the Republicans have." He states, though, that "the President does not go far enough nor fast enough in the direction of reform."

Doan's Ointment has soothed hundreds.

Here's what one Mt. Sterling citizen says:

T. A. Garrison, farmer, living one mile west from town on the Grassy Lick pike, says: "When I state that Doan's Ointment is the best remedy for healing and allaying irritation that I ever came across I know what I am talking about and I base my opinion on the following: For a number of weeks I was greatly troubled with a bad sore on the back of one of my hands. It was caused from a bruise and so painful was it at times that I could scarcely use my hand. In spite of all I could do and the use of numerous salves, ointments and everything that I could hear of, the irritation only became worse and kept gradually spreading. Doan's Ointment was brought to my attention and I procured a box at F. C. Duerson's drug store. I had but little faith in it, but after one or two applications I noticed the inflammation being reduced and it was only a short time before the trouble was entirely removed."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. 14-3f.

The draft of a proposed uniform divorce law, decided upon by the Resolutions Committee of the Divorce Congress to be held in Philadelphia next month, has been forwarded to the various delegates who will make up the gathering. The proposed measure makes little or no change in grounds for divorce, but provisions in it would discourage the evil considerably.
